TECHNOLOGY – THE KEY TO RISK REDUCTION

Realizing that risk is inherent in transportation, Lee TranServices has made controlling and minimizing that risk a critical component of our services.

You need up-to-date, comprehensive information management with accurate, timely reports to make the informed decisions that reduce risk, and this information has to be optimized and customized for your needs and circumstances. All of this is possible through our web-based information technology - in particular, systems built by people who have an in-depth understanding of your particular risk exposure.

With that in mind, for almost a decade Lee TranServices has been building and improving our own specialized software solutions that incorporate our expertise in transportation compliance and risk management. Today, we are considered the “standard” in our industry for powerful web-based technological solutions.
